

Article 22 – Automated individual decision-making including profiling

Where the Trust is making decisions automatically from electronic systems, the person can make a request for decisions not to be made in this way.

We do use electronic systems that assist clinicians to make decisions relating to your care. However, the decisions are not currently taken automatically. A clinician will always review the information before making the decision.

If we are going to implement a system to make decisions automatically without clinicians reviewing the information, then a data protection impact assessment (DPIA) must be completed to ensure all risks are identified, assessed and mitigated.
